Abstract—The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the body composition and muscle strength of 10 sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program. The control group did not exercise. The exercise group showed a significant decrease in body fat percentage and a significant increase in muscle strength compared to the control group. The exercise group also showed a significant increase in muscle mass and a significant decrease in body weight. The control group showed no significant changes in body composition or muscle strength. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program can improve body composition and muscle strength in sedentary, middle-aged men.
